

Where to Find Native Plants

South-West Indiana

The following is a list of known sellers of native plants for landscaping. Included in this list are suppliers specifically for native plant species, although some more common native plants may be available at local nurseries and greenhouses not specializing in natives. For more information on native plants in Indiana, including where to buy them, visit www.indiananativeplants.org. Please check with each individual seller for current availability as well as any minimum order sizes and deadlines.
